

Statement from the Director on the Final report of the ISI CAS

We would like to express our appreciation of the effort the Commission dedicated to the review of our institute. The Commission has shown really a deep insight and understanding of the whole institute, its structure, and mission, position on the national as well as international level, our research results and plans for the future.

The overall judgement of the institute is positive and we are very pleased and happy that the long-term effort of our staff was appreciated. We are also grateful for the comments and advice we received. Most of them are of a significant value and we will surely take them into consideration. Some really marginal doubts may have arisen from not fully proper and thorough understanding of the research environment and specific conditions in the Czech Republic. Putting together the Commission's comments and advises with those of our International Advisory Board we receive a very useful feedback and a set of recommendations for our future research focus as well as management of the institute.

The procedure of the Phase II of the evaluation of research and professional activity of the Institute of Scientific Instruments followed the rules and methodology stated by the documents "Methodology of evaluation of research and professional activity of research-oriented institutes of the Czech Academy of Sciences for the period 2015–2019".

28th May, 2021

prof. Ing. Josef Lazar, Dr.
Interim Director of the Institute of Scientific Instruments